DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

EASTERN DATES TO OCTOBER 14.

EASTERN STATES.

Fire at St. Louis.

Bank Robbery.

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 11.—The Saratoga County Bank, at Waterford, was robbed at an early hour this morning of over $300,000 by a gang of nine men disguised in Ku Klux uniform. The robbers were secreted in the house of the Cashier early last evening. They afterwards bound and gagged the entire family except the Cashier who they compelled to open the vaults. Loss to the Bank about $85,000. Special depositors will lose about $300,000 in U. S. Bonds and stocks.

Disaster on the Lakes.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 15.—The propeller La Belle, one of the largest boats on the lakes, laden with flour, grain and pork, with a number of passengers on board, foundered about twenty miles of Kenosha, about 2 o'clock this morning, having sprung a leak about midnight. The news reached Racine this afternoon, one of La Belle's boats having arrived with eleven of her crew. They state that four or five boats and one raft, all filled with people, left the sinking propeller a short time before she went down. They think that all the boats are safe, as the lake was comparatively smooth and weather calm, and that few if any passengers are lost.

LATER.—Another boat load of people from the La Belle, have arrived at Kenosha, including the Captain and crew.

Collision.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 14.—A locomotive ran into an omnibus at Lewiston bridge on Saturday evening, killing the driver, engineer and seven persons.

Suicide of a Minister.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14.—Rev. J. H. Kennedy, of Delaware, Ohio, financial agent of the Ohio Western University, and prominent Methodist Divine, suicided in the cellar of his house yesterday.

Indiana Election Details.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 14.—The official vote of 77 counties and semi-official vote of 18 others, give Hendricks (Democrat) for Governor, a majority of 894, Sexton (Republican) for Lieut-Governor, 1,313; Curry, (Republican) for Secretary of State, 1,103; Wildman, (Republican) for Auditor, 1,224; Glover, (Republican) for Treasurer, 1,520; Orth, (Republican) for Congress, 1,142; Williams, (Republican,) 1,474. Hopkins, (Dem.) is elected Superintendent of Public Instruction. The Legislature stands: House—54 Republicans; 46 Democrats. Senate—27 Republicans, 23 Democrats.

The Great Boat Race.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Nautical Magazine of Liverpool announces the ocean race from Liverpool to Celino, 11,000 miles, between the White Star steamer Republic and the Pacific Company's Tucora. The latter was to sail on the 4th of October. The Republic next day.

Attempt to Bribe.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 14.—A complaint has been made before Alderman Arnwig by Reinhardt Keller, election Judge of the Eighth ward, in Lancaster, against Dr. H. B. Mullenburg, U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue, for offering said election Judge $200 if he would stuff the ballot box and reduce Buckalew's majority to a hundred. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Mullenburg.

A Greeley Woman!

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—A decided sensation was created at Cooper Institute to-night by a speech of Miss Minnie Swain, of Trenton, N. J., before a large Greeley meeting. Her remarks were received with frequent and general applause.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The City in Mourning.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Business has been suspended and the buildings draped in mourning. President Grant sent sent the following telegram to Gen. W. H. Seward, at Auburn:

"I condole with you and the Nation, in the loss of your kind father and most eminent statesman. His services to the country have been part of its history. I regret I cannot attend the funeral to-day and participate in the last earthly honors to the remains of the distinguished patriot and statesman."

CANADA.

Steamer Burned.

KINGSTON, Oct. 14.—The propeller Chime, bound, up, with merchandize was burned last night near here.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Spanish Affairs.

MADRID, Oct. 14.—A dispatch from Ferral says that the insurrectionists made two attacks on the frigate Asturias yesterday, but were repulsed. Three government vessels are blockading the entrance to the harbor of Ferral. It is impossible for any vessel captured by the rebels to get out. Anarchy prevails among the insurgent bands. It is believed the insurrection will be overthrown by the first attack of Government troops.

Marshal Brigas, Captain-General of the provinces of Corunna, arrived at Ferral with a force of government troops. The rebels continue to concentrate at the arsenal. One thousand, five hundred insurrectionists, who left Ferrol for Jubia, were intercepted by Marshal Brigas and retreated to the town.

On the Perch at Put-in Bay.

But to return to the long front porch, as a great many do in a real life after the hops or the regular evening dance that is just as pleasant and don't cost anything. A great amount of flirting is done here. If a man never had predisposition to be "spoony," he certainly would have a bad attack after a short sojourn in this atmosphere. Although the man who keeps the fancy store says this is "a bad season for engagements," still there are and have been many a desperate case here this year. As I have watched I have thought how well the lines of Praed fill the picture:

"Our love was like most other loves—
A little glow, a little shiver,
A rosebud and a pair of gloves,
And 'Fly not yet' upon the river;
Some jealousy of some one's hair,
Some hopes of dying broken hearted,
A miniature, a lock of hair,
The usual vows—and then we parted."

An amusing case of this kind happened no long ago. A lawyer who has his office in the Masonic Temple of your city, had a room on the ground floor, with a window on the porch. Soon after retiring, chairs were moved on the porch outside his window, and directly he heard voices—low, but earnest, voices—principally a man's voice, and as he warmed to his subject it grew so loud that our friend not only was kept awake, but could not avoid hearing what was said.

The young man was pouring forth the tale of his admiration—his ardent love, as steadfast as the polar star, as fixed as adamant. She seemed to like it very well, but didn't say yes nor nay. So the adorer went on in the same strain—he happy that she would listen, she happy that he did speak. This continued from twelve till two in the wee hours, when the fair one made a move. The wretched spoon, begged that she would tell him his fate then and there, but she would not. At last she said, "I will tell you in the morning."

Imagine their horror and surprise as a wild cry came from the sleepless lawyer's room. "For God's sake, don't come back before ten! Come back at ten, and I will be here to hear the rest."

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

EASTERN DATES TO OCTOBER 15.

Democratic Politicians' Caucus.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The Democratic National Executive Committee held a conference yesterday, at which were present a number of leading Democrats, including Samuel J. Tilden and Senator Fenton, of New York; Wm. T. Phillips, of Illinois; Gen. Geo. V. McCook and Brinkerhoff, of Ohio; John A. Finch and Mr. Dowling, of Indiana. Reports were made of a very encouraging character as to the canvass in different States, and it is announced that the campaign will now be prosecuted with renewed energy.

The Campaign in Illinois.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Speaker Blaine addressed an immense Republican meeting here last evening.

More of the La Belle.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Two boats from the propeller La Belle, which foundered on Lake Michigan yesterday morning, arrived at Racine last night, one with twelve persons, and the other with seven. These, with four who reached Kenosha last night, make twenty-three known to be saved. The clerk of the La Belle, who commanded one of the boats which arrived at Racine last night, says there were fifty two persons on board—twenty-one passengers including two children. Five or six men refused to leave the sinking vessel. When she went down they were seen struggling in the water, and the sea was running too high to admit of assistance reaching them. It is thought they were drowned. Two boats with twenty-three passengers are still missing, but it is thought they are safe. One boat with ten passengers on board, was seen by the clerk's boat yesterday afternoon, steering north, and he thinks they were picked up by a passing schooner. The disaster was caused by the vessel shipping a large sea amidships, which put out the fires and stopped the engine, allowing the vessel to swing into the trough of the sea, and straining the seams open. She was kept afloat about six hours, from midnight on Sunday till near six o'clock yesterday morning. Her cargo, which was valuable, was a total loss. A great part of it was thrown overboard by the crew in attempting to lighten her and keep her afloat.

The Last Boats Arrived.

CHICAGO, Oct 15.—The two missing boats of the sunken propeller La Belle reached shore with crews all safe. Six lives are all that are known to be lost.

Disorders in Arkansas.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 15.—The greatest excitement exists in Osceola, Arkansas, among citizens fleeing with their families in anticipation of another attack from negroes. No further bloodshed is reported. The whites of several villages are under arms with approaches guarded.

Miscellaneous News.

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—Mary Ella, aged three years, was killed yesterday by her idiot brother Patrick, five years old, who struck her on the head with his fist and crushed her skull.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Comstock, foreman of the anti-ring grand jury, replies to a communication from one of Tweed's lawyers that his demand for information as to irregularities in the grand jury room, is an insult and evidently made in hope that a bribe proportionate to the amount stolen by Tweed would procure the required information.

A Raleigh, North Carolina, dispatch says that owing to the indefiniteness as to the requirement respecting the notice for contesting the recent election, the Democratic Committee have decided to defer giving such notice for the present.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15.—Delano, Secretary of the Interior, last evening began a week's campaign in this State at Middletown.

It is now stated that Tom Fields went to Havana on Thursday to avoid the consequences of his trial.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—Prince Frederick Henry Albert, brother of Emperor William, died to day.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Minister Washburne sailed from Southampton to-day for New York on the Deutchland.

From London.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—A great meeting of the International ists will be held in Hyde Park at noon on the 30th.

A Paris dispatch says: Thiers yesterday said he had received information that the released Communists now in Paris had in their possession 20,000 bombs similar to those used by Orsini and his companions when they attempted to assassinate ex-Emperor Napoleon in 1858.

European Politics.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Politically, Europe is in a critical condition. The meeting of the Emperors at Berlin is considered a hypocritical thing, gotten up for effect to quiet the political and social fermentation going on among the masses.

Excitement in Paris.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—A Paris special says there was great excitement in Paris last night, consequent on the reception by President Thiers of a box of bombs with an anonymous letter, stating that a thousand bombs were sent to Paris. Troops were placed in suspected quarters and the Imperialists closely watched. Thiers and Marshal McMahon had a conference last night.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—There was a severe fight made yesterday among the stockholders in Eureka Con, to change the management, but the election closed in a triumph for the old Trustees. About four fifths of the stock was represented.

A meeting of Mexican claimants last night adopted a memorial to present to the United States, asking that energetic measures be adopted to protect the interests of American citizens in Mexico.

Hereafter the police officers of this city must appear in uniform when off duty as well as when on it.

It is reported that the festival for the exiled South American friars, held some time ago, netted $13,774.

Public interest still continues in the race to come off at Sacramento to-morrow. Betting is 100 on Maid to 75 on Orient.

The straight-out Democrats say it is not too late, neither is it too soon to administer a wholesome and deserved rebuke to the late Baltimore Convention, for its shameful abandonment of the Democratic faith at the moment when it should have clung there with most uniform tenacity.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 15—The May assessment on mining stock amounted to $351,650; dividends, $1,007,000. In October the assessments were $584,550, and the dividends only $210,000. This change of front in the intrinsic value of stocks is enough to explain the reason for the dullness in the mining shares market.

Tobey Judge Dwinelle sentenced William Donovan to be hanged. He killed Mitchell in Solano county three years ago, was tried three times, and on the last trial in this court was convicted of murder and sentenced accordingly.

The Odd Fellows' College and Home Association held a meeting this afternoon. The results of the deliberation are unfavorable to the location of the college at Napa.

INTERIOR CALIFORNIA DISPATCHES.

SAN RAFAEL, Oct. 15.—A large and enthusiastic Republican meeting at this place last night. Hall crowded.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 15.—The Surveyors of the San Diego and San Bernardine Railroad Company are engaged in locating the first five miles of road, in order to have the right of way granted over the property which it must cross.

NEVADA, Cal., Oct. 15.—A large Republican meeting is being addressed by Hon. L. Pinney, to be followed by Hon. G. C. Gorham.

EMIGRANT GAP, Oct. 15.—Capt. P. Munday was killed last evening while working in a sawmill. A small cant saw burst by high speed. Two of the pieces struck the Captain on the knee and another on the thigh, severing the main artery. He lived less than an hour. Deceased was Captain of the California Volunteers during the rebellion.

NAPA, Oct. 15.—Cochran is speaking to the largest meeting ever held in this city. There is unbounded enthusiasm among the entire concourse. If this can be taken as a criterion of the sentiment of the people, it may be said to be unanimous for Grant and Cochran.

Homicide.

CASTROVILLE, Oct. 15.—This morning a fatal affray occurred between Sam Rutherford and Ed. Wixon. Several shots were fired and Wixon was killed, shot through the head. The sheriff arrived on the ground as Wixon fell and arrested Rutherford, but while taking him along he fell to the ground seriously wounded. Rutherford is badly but not fatally injured.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

GRAVE CREEK, Oct. 15.—At half-past three o'clock to-day, the stage bound north, upset about two miles north of Grant's Pass, Jackson county, Oregon, going down what is known as Louise Creek hill near the residence of William Kahler. The stage was full of passengers, one of whom, a Mr. McCrumb, was seriously if not fatally injured. The injured man was taken to the house of Mr. Kahler. Every care that could be was bestowed on him. It seems that owing to the sickness of Mr. Hyde, the regular driver, the hostler at Grant's Pass, undertook to drive through with the above the result. The coach was badly demolished. Three of the passengers and the driver returned to the station, where a new outfit was procured and Mr. Tucker, the driver from the other route, proceeded to the scene of the accident and took the mail and passengers on. A physician was telegraphed for from Grave Creek to attend the injured man. No other passengers were severely injured.

Caught Him.

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 15.—Reynolds, one of the prisoners that escaped from Monterey jail a few days ago, was captured this afternoon near this place.

The Other Side.

VANCOUVER, W. T., Oct. 14, 1872.

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Mr. B. M. Washburn had the benefit of an explanation in yesterday's OREGONIAN of the reasons which led him to dispose of his paper to the Democratic party of that county. As there are two sides to every question, it is nothing more than fair that the other side should be heard. The facts given, below are from a perfectly reliable source: Mr. Washburn has held the position of Postmaster ever since Andrew Johnson's time, and as such has given pretty general satisfaction to all parties—more particularly to the Democratic party. About a year and a half ago he purchased a controlling interest in the Vancouver Register, a paper which from its inception had been run in the interest of the Republican party. Under its former management the paper was well supported, and as a newspaper enterprise was a success. When it came into the possession of Mr. W, the Republicans felt doubly assured, from his official position in the party, that while he continued to be its owner, their party would have a warm advocate in the Register. They were very much disappointed, however, when at the moment its services were most required, they found it unwilling to render any voluntary support, but tendered its services to which ever party would first comply with its extravagant demands. Having enjoyed a position worth $1,000 per annum for five years, —a position for which he was clearly indebted to the Republican party—was confessing nothing in the way of compensation for supporting the Republican cause. The plea of necessity does not hold good, and does not by any means justify such an act of political treachery at such a critical moment. The fact of having deferred making known his demands, until, as he supposed, he had the party in a position to force a compliance with his terms, shows at once that the act was premeditated, and not, as he stated, the result of financial embarrassment. The only incumbrance on the office was held by a Republican who would rather have cancelled the whole debt than to have caused the party or the paper the slightest inconvenience. The whole matter can be summed up in a few words: Mr. Washburn was really anxious to sell the paper. Intrinsically it was not worth much. Some means had to be adopted to give it an extrinsic value. As a political organ it had an extrinsic value, but political organs are in active demand only in political times. Now comes into play the law of supply and demand. The time when the paper should be offered for sale should be when its services were most needed. By that means not only the intrinsic but the extrinsic value could be obtained. Finally, Mr. Washburn attempted to take advantage of the necessities of his party and compel it to pay him twice what his office was worth, with the alternative of seeing the paper go over to the other side. The Republicans of that county have much greater admiration for the business tact displayed than they have for the political principles entertained by their Postmaster.

THE BOY'S TICKET.

The Register is in trouble about "the boy's ticket," and says it has seen boys play at this, that, and the other game. Now, if it will hold on until the 5th of November, it will see "the boys" play at beating Democrats, and they will play for "keeps" too. The fact is, our boys have been to Sunday School, and they have read how the stripling David killed the big Goliath, who was a "man of war from his youth." Our boys are boys to be sure, but they are smart; and, as to our county matters, if the poor old Democratic gray-heads will just keep as cool as our boys are, they won't be hurt.

THE PROSPECT.

Mr. Garfielde, the Republican candidate for Delegate to Congress from Washington Territory, is now making a very thorough and energetic canvass, visiting even the most remote portions of the Territory. The party seem to be united and confident of his election by a largely increased majority over preceding elections.

The Democracy seem to be "going through with the motions" of a campaign, but without any enthusiasm or apparent hope of success. They have relied entirely on their hopes of dissension in the Republican ranks. But, contrary to their expectations, they find Republicans in all parts of the Territory firmly united and working earnestly to secure Mr. Garfielde's election, which is now generally conceded to be absolutely certain.

Judge McFadden, the Democratic candidate, it is supposed, has gone to Walla Walla to open the campaign. He is very reticent as to his proposed movements. It is understood that his canvass will be only partial. Nothing, however, is generally known about it.

CLARKE COUNTY.

LETTER FROM SENATOR BROWNLOW.—In a recent letter Senator Brownlow, of Tennessee, says: At no time, hitherto, in Tennessee or throughout the country, have the prospects of the National Republican party been brighter and more glorious than now. "Victory is in the air," as the New York Tribune said before the North Carolina election, and the glorious Republican victory which was in the North Carolina air pervades the atmosphere in all parts of the country. I have no idea that Greeley and Brown will carry more than five or seven States, and the corrupt coalition which brought about their candidacy will be more disgracefully beaten than has ever been any party in the history of this country. Our grand old party could beat the Ku Klux Democracy if it were reinforced by forty times the Greeley apostates who rally to its piratical flag.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 18, 1872.

The Portland Water Bill.

The gentlemen who seemed to have the management of the anti-water meeting on Monday evening, in their remarks upon the bill before the Legislature, repeated the charge made by Mr. Holladay's paper of a secret conspiracy for dishonest purposes on the part of the Committee that brought the bill forward. We have already exposed the untruthfulness of this charge, and shown that the bill in question was prepared in a more public manner than any bill that was ever before introduced into the Legislature.

The statement that the bill was changed after it went out of the hands of the Council and prior to its being introduced, is, likewise, wholly incorrect. The bill was introduced exactly as it was unanimously approved by the Council, and as it appeared in the pamphlet copy sent to each member of the Senate and House early in the session. We are informed that some of the delegation from Multnomah, who were not satisfied with the bill expressed a willingness to see it pass if the amount of the bonds authorized to be issued was limited to $750,000, and the rate of interest restricted to eight per centum, and that such an amendment would not be objectionable to the friends of the measure. But the bill as introduced was exactly the same as that which was publicly adopted by the Common Council.

Equally incorrect is the Bulletin's assertion that in addition to the sum allowed by this act, "the further sum of $100,000 provided for by the act of incorporation of the city, approved Oct. 14, 1864, can also be used by the Commissioners." The person who penned that statement ought to have known better, if he did not. The most cursory examination of the charter and of the proposed law, will show how unfounded this assertion is.

Next in order comes the statement, that the petition which was sent up to the Legislature a few days ago, asking the passage of the bill, was secretly circulated, and that the tax-payers of Portland were thus deprived of the opportunity to remonstrate against it. How it would be possible to circulate such a petition and obtain the signatures of the persons who signed the petition in question, and still keep the matter a secret, we leave it for those injured tax-payers to show. The editor of the Bulletin, in the last two issues, has assumed to have been greatly slighted and wronged in not having an opportunity to see the petition. Possibly he did not see it. This measure is one which involves simply a question of taxation. The assessment roll of the city shows that the editor of the Bulletin is not a tax-payer. This may explain the omission. But it can hardly be supposed a petition circulated only for a few hours, will reach every person in the city or half of them.

We pass now to the question which seemed to trouble the anti-water meeting more than any other; namely, the immense increase of taxation necessary to pay for the water works. In the first place, it is not true as asserted by the Bulletin and these anti-water people, that the largest tax-payers in the city did not sign the petition for the passage of the bill. The assessment roll of the city shows that the persons who signed that petition were the heavist tax-payers of the city, and that their aggregate assessments amount to $1,619,975. The fact further appears from the roll, that of the seventy-four signers to that petition there are thirty-five who pay more taxes respectively than the owner of the Bulletin, Mr. Holladay; twenty-one who pay respectively more than twice as much as he pays; thirteen, each of whom pay more than four times as much; and four, who each pay more than ten times as much. The roll still further shows that among the signers to that petition there are three, each of whom pays the city more taxes than Mr. Holladay individually, and his two railway companies and his transfer company all added together; two who pay more than twice as much as all those together; and one that pays more than five times as much. It also shows that there are some who pay more than twice as much as all the persons who took part in the anti-water demonstration as speakers, including the chairman, all who acted as committeemen, and Mr. Holladay combined. It further shows that Dr. J. S. Giltner, one of the leading committeemen, is not assessed for a dollar's worth of property, and that one of the principal speakers of the occasion, who dwelt long and mournfully on burdensome taxation, is in precisely the same condition. These are the people who claim to represent the taxable property of the city of Portland. They have as good right to be protected against unjust burdens as if they were heavy tax-payers, but when they assume to be the tax-payers of the city, they assume that which is not true. So much for the figures. We have some more which we can produce if it becomes necessary.

But there is a fact which these anti-water people appear to overlook entirely. These bonds are not payable till after thirty years from their date. The population of Portland, at its past ratio of increase, will then number 40,000 or 50,000. Let it be assumed that it will require the sale of $750,000 of bonds to construct the water works. The annual interest on that sum at eight per cent, will be $60,000. Three thousand faucets, at the present water rates, would pay up the interest, and leave $12,000 annually with which to pay expenses. In five years the water rent alone would be sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds, defray running expenses, and leave a surplus to be invested as a sinking fund. Or, adopting the wiser course of allowing the principal of the debt to remain for the increased population and wealth of thirty years hence to pay, the rates of water could be reduced to a merely nominal figure compared with the rates paid at present. Such has been the result in other cities that have provided their own water works. We venture to affirm that there cannot be cited a single case of a city which has had the water supply of its inhabitants in its own hands for any length in which the water rates are even one-half what they are in Portland to-day; and yet such cities derive immense revenues from their water works, thus greatly reducing direct taxation as well as the tax on water.

The Board of Immigration.

One of the most important measures that has come before the Legislature at its present session is that which creates the Board of Immigration Commissioners. The bill for that purpose names as such Commissioners Messrs. P. Wasserman, C. H. Lewis and W. S. Ladd of Portland, Mr. Henry Klippel of Jacksonville, and Rev. Thomas Condon of The Dalles. No better men could be selected in the State. All these gentlemen are old Oregonians, thoroughly acquainted with the wants of the country, with the resources of the material wealth it possesses, and with the special adaptations of each section.

With a fertile soil, a vast mineral wealth, and a climate unsurpassed for salubrity, Oregon certainly offers great inducements to the immigrant in search of a home. And yet our population does not increase rapidly. The reason of our slow growth in population is not that our State is unfavorably known abroad, but that it is not known at all. Oregon is scarcely heard of abroad, except as a very remote Northwestern outpost of the United States, which is nearer to California than to any other place, and a long way from there. Our wheat and wool and woolen goods are reported in the markets of the world as California products—except when they happen to be of inferior quality, in which case we get full credit. Though we have made great strides during the last few years in the way of internal improvement and the means of communication amongst ourselves, there are still the same barriers between us and the rest of the world that existed in the old pioneer days, and the people of other countries whose friends have strayed away into these remote wilds still direct letters to them at "Portland, Oregon county, California," or "Puget Sound county, Oregon."

A Board of Commissioners, one of whose duties it shall be to disseminate accurate knowledge of this country, of its geography and climate, and of its vast and various material resources, by the circulation of printed information, in the different languages of Europe, will accomplish more than all the individual laborers in that cause can hope to accomplish together.

The appointment of a traveling agent to lecture upon Oregon in the Atlantic States and Europe, may be reasonably expected to prove a valuable auxiliary to the efforts of the Board of Immigration Commissioners, especially since the person appointed to that position is the Hon. E. L. Applegate, who is as good a representative of the true pioneers of Oregon as can be found in the State. But his services can never be productive of so great results as those of the Commissioners, for the reason that it will be impossible for him to reach so many people.

The Bulletin of yesterday rose up five or six columns in trying to explain the damaging facts which its recent course compelled us to show up in regard to its treachery to the Republican party. The facts we stated it cannot deny, and the conclusions therefrom are unavoidable. We did not seek this controversy, but rather endeavored to avoid it. If the editor of the Bulletin has got more than he bargained for, the fault is his, not ours. He can now take his time to recover his self-possession, and to devise some way to remove the conviction which his republication and approval of Greeley slanders against Republicans, have wrought, that he is playing into the hands of the enemy. We wish him no ill luck in the effort, but it would not be reasonable to predict an easy task for him.

By invitation of the Republican Central Committee of Washington county, W. Lair Hill will speak upon the political questions of the day at Hillsboro, October 21st, 1872, at 7 o'clock P. M.

FROM THE CAPITAL.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT]

SALEM, Oct. 15, 1872.

The public excitement over the Canal and Locks bill grows intense. It is the theme of conversation and argument that absorbs all others. Here in Salem the citizens seem to be about equally divided in opinion. There is a wide spread sentiment that the State ought to own the Locks; a sentiment, however, which does not partake one whit of the hypocritical concession of the Bulletin, but looks to the material interests of the whole people. And in the Legislature, too, there seems to be a healthier tone of action; a manifest repugnance to anything that may be construed into class legislation. The querulous correspondent of the Bulletin vies with his immaculate master in striving to prove the scheme itself a swindle. But throughout this community little heed is paid to the strident lamentations of the Bulletin. I am assured and reassured by the opponents of the bill that it cannot pass; but from a careful canvass of the House, I am inclined to believe the assertion is made with undue haste. The bill may not pass, but the chances are decidedly in its favor. Knowledge of this fact is the motor that stirs the noble head of the Bulletin to the terrific flex of words that greets each appearance of the bill in the House. From the degree of opposition a measure encounters, we can judge quite accurately of its strength. And if the nervous, manuege and lowering brows of the railroad lobby are a correct gauge of public opinion,—why, the passage of the bill is assured. At 2 P. M. to-day this bill will be read a third time. In this connection it is whispered that a fund of $15,000 has been sent here to be used in—or on—the Senate to defeat the bill in the event of its passing the House.

BILLS PASSED.

The House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole yesterday and made summary disposition of numerous measures. H. B. No. 74, which provides among other things that the caption every contestant for a seat in the Legislature shall pay his own expenses and draw no mileage or per diem in case he is defeated—passed and was sent to Senate. There it was read first and second times by title, and referred to the Committee on Elections. H. B. No. 58, requiring County Clerks to keep records of public surveys, passed. H. B. No. 52, to appropriate 25 per cent. of proceeds of sale of swamp, overflowed and tide lands, to the common school fund was made the special order for to-day at 11 A. M.

H. B. No. 92, "To protect minority in private corporations"—introduced by Mr. Barbank—contains some novel features. It proposes to enact that the assets of any private corporation shall not be sold or disposed of without written consent of all the stockholders therein; nor shall a distribution of the profits or annual revenue be made in any manner unless the written consent of every stockholder be obtained. Some opposition showing itself, the bill was re-committed.

The Speaker has signed H. B. 23, to permanently organize the State Agricultural College and provide for the support of the same, and H. B. No. 18, to amend the Code concerning juries in Justices' Courts.

IN THE SENATE.

H. J. M. No. 57, praying Congress to donate the Branch Mint at the Dalles for educational purposes, was concurred in unanimously. It is proposed to place Rev. Thos. Condon's valuable collection of fossils and natural curiosities in this building.

A motion to take a recess until 7 o'clock, met with prompt defeat, some of the Republicans urging a caucus, and sundry industrious committeemen pleading superabundance of business in their hands. But a large majority of the Senators confessed a desire to attend on which occasion, Mrs. A. J. Duniway, Mrs. J. D. Johnson and other distinguished speakers were billed to speak.

Never has a larger or more select audience greeted public speakers in Salem than that which crowded the spacious Theater last night. Mrs. Duniway was the first speaker. She had no apology to make for appearing before the world as a politician. She felt that her mission in the world was to exalt and purify the corruption of American politics. When she first heard of the nomination of Horace Greeley she was serene and calm. That serenity, that unwonted calmness induced her to offer in the Woman's Suffrage Convention at New York a resolution endorsing H. G. But she was ignominiously defeated, and is now firmly persuaded that Susan B. Anthony served her right. She thought H. G. had very little of what politicians call "backbone," by women called principle. A narration of her visit to the Tribune sanctum followed. Mr. Greeley remarked that the June election in Oregon—then impending—would go Democratic, "because," said he, "out there you haven't many schools and you have a great deal of whisky and Democracy." I begged his pardon and told him that Oregon had good schools and no more whisky or Democracy than you have in New York; and by the time I have run the New Northwest as long as you have edited the Tribune, there will be no whisky or Democracy left. Since her arrival in Salem a prominent Democratic State official had remarked to her: "Didn't Mr. Greeley make that remark in a sort of facetious style?" Bless you, no; he is incapable of saying anything funny. He then asked: "Did Mr. Greeley say anything more?" I replied: "Yes; lots." "Well, don't tell any more now. I have promised to vote for Greeley, and it makes me sea-sick and sick." [Prolonged applause.]

Mrs. D. thought it quite as easy for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle as for a measure that was good for anything to pass this Legislature. She then read a communication from J. H. Mitchell, regretting his inability to attend. And so, after quoting from a gentleman whose soul is pacing, restlessly, the circles of eternity, Mrs. D. placed the Goddess of Liberty on the pinnacle of progress, with the American Eagle in one hand and the Stars and Stripes in the other, and having called upon Mr. Meacham to bring down the Goddess and Eagle from their dizzy heights, withdrew. That gentleman undertook the task with a vim and energy that won tumultuous applause. The next speaker appeared and advocated the re-election of General Grant, in a brief but elegant address of fifteen minutes. The effort is highly praised by all who heard. A little more familiarity with an audience would render Mrs. J. a speaker of rare ability.

MRS. DR. MARY P. SAWTELLE

was then introduced. In a few brief remarks, interspersed with caustic allusions to "her friend Lish Applegate." She advocated the right of women to donation or homestead claims. Was moved to engage in this good work by seeing the thousands of women who had lost husbands and lovers in the shock of battle, toiling, starving in great cities, while millions of acres of valuable land lie unemployed. She thought that every unmarried woman should have one quarter section of land, but despaired of getting the Legislature of this State to do anything. "I have the idea that as they so amended Mrs. Duniway's bill out of existence that they had constituted to suspend the laws of nature so as not to call women into requisition in increasing the population." [Sensation.] She thought that the noblest trait in Grant's character was the prudent foresight and provident care with which he looked out for his household.

"IN MEDIO TUTISSIMUS IBIS."

Mrs. D. then introduced Gen. E. L. Applegate as her "friend and champion." At this unexpected introduction Gen. A. stared in blank dismay for a moment, and then proceeded to verify the advice of Jupiter to his wayward son, by diving into specie payments. The ladies were not content to let him go on, so by divers gentle hints they brought him round to the consideration of Mrs. Sawtelle's slashing critique. Gen. A. said he couldn't say much because he felt out of place—decidedly out of place. He had implored Mrs. D. not to let him be called out, but despite his prayers and supplications here he was. "The idea of a 'philosopher' has always been associated in my mind with a grave face and massive physique, and it has been difficult for me to conceive of a small man and a gigantic intellect. It seems to me like putting an immense saw-mill into a corn-stalk." [Laughter.] I mention this that you may see how difficult it is to conceive of a delicate, fairy-like woman possessing any of the attributes of statesmanship and diplomacy. What I have seen here to-night has had a tendency to advance me. And as the continual cry of all people is 'progress,' I hope you can sympathize with me, when I say I can 'report progress,' and shall, in a few moments 'ask leave to sit again!'" [Laughter.]

We are told—it makes me weep to think of it—that in the cities many good women are all huddled up in a heap; starving because they haven't a quarter section of land. Now they ought to be huddled out of there, and if it were possible to do this by carrying to each deserving female one quarter section, I should leap to the job with the down-sandaled feet of Mercury. But here a distressing doubt strikes me: no matter how much a gentleman loves a lady, he would experience great difficulty in lugging so large a piece of land the enormous distance of three thousand miles. You see the dilemma: the woman won't come out to the land, therefore, according to Mrs. Sawtelle's scheme the land must go to the woman. It's the same old story about Mohammed and the mountain. Nothing ever did me so much good as to see a woman in good, cold earnest. [Laughter.] Listen at me now! I see an individual over there looking in another direction. The point is: 'Can a pretty woman have sense enough to be a statesman or successful politician?' I leave the solution to you."

THE RETORT COURTEOUS (!)

Dr. Sawtelle filed her replication. She was aware it was a difficult feat to carry a quarter section of land across the continent, and yet it would seem no though some gentleman (casting her eagle eye on the last speaker) tried to carry almost as much on their shirt and boots! [Continued laughter.] With this the meeting broke up, and every one retired heartily satisfied with the entertainment of the evening.

IN THE CAUCUS

Held last night by Republicans, nothing was done. The chief contest for caucus nominations seems to be over the appointment of Capitol Commissioners. To-night is held a

GRAND RECEPTION BALL,

In honor of the passage of the Capitol Appropriation Bill. The Legislature is to be feted and lionized, and the affair promises to be a success, although many of our best citizens and families are debarred from the evening's entertainment by reason of its character as a ball. It had been much better if the management had not marred the occasion by the introduction of what will prove a source of grievous offence to so many.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 18, 1872.

CITY.

SERIOUS JOKE.—We have just heard of a joke which an old farmer cracked upon the members of the Metropolitan Police force in his city the other day. Although living in the country, this plain, unsophisticated man had heard of the late action of the Council in regard to the police ball. Having a sovereign contempt for indulging in dry jests, without meaning or point, he indulged in a little "gosh," would be considered fanciful. A few days since while visiting the city with a load of vegetables, he was being driven by the new city jail. Seeing the Captains of the force seated in front, and in a very quietly smoking a pipe, he succumbed to the temptation. Drawing up his team, he walked up to the officer to come to him. The officer approached the "honest farmer" with head to say. The latter commenced by telling him that a great scarcity of hands existed in the country; that he found it difficult to get help on his farm; that he had a large crop of potatoes to dig, and did not know where to obtain men; he was willing to pay, and, at last, able bodied fellows to assist him. He had been at a loss to know where to procure help, but upon reading the papers about the action of the Council in regard to the Police Ball, he thought he could get that number of men (a significant wink); however, he would help before the 20th of the month. He could not divine for a few minutes why the fellow was driving at; but he soon caught on to it," and instead of getting angry, he heartily laughed at the joke by a hearty laugh, assuring him that he would drove away that deceptitated person, and was glad to "get a job"—even to the extent of a dollar per day.

FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT.—A couple of months ago was sued in the Circuit Court of this city for debt. He was required by the Court to make oath to the amount of his property. He stated that among other things he had a watch "in soak," and was allowed to depart to his residence and with it satisfy the execution. He met the constable. The colored man, however, did

SERIOUS JOKE.—We have just heard of a good joke which an old farmer cracked on one of the members of the Metropolitan Police force of this city the other day Although living out in the country, this plain, unsophisticated husbandman had heard of the late action of the Legislature in regard to the police bill Having a disposition to indulge in dry jests, without meaning any harm he planned a little 'goak' would not be out of place. A few days since while passing through the city with a load of vegetables he chanced to drive by the new City Jail Seeing one of the Captains of the force seated in front of the door way quietly smoking a pipe, he could not resist the temptation Drawing up his team he beckoned to the officer to come to him The Captain approached the "honest farmer" to hear what he had to say The latter commenced by saying that a great scarcity of hands prevailed in the country, that he found it difficult to obtain sufficient help on his farm, that he had several thousand bushels of potatoes to dig soon, and knew not where to obtain men he needed about ten stout, able bodied fellows to assist him for a few weeks; he had been at a loss to determine where to procure help, but having lately read in the papers about the action of the Legislature in regard to the Police Bill, he thought he knew where he could get that number of men (here he gave a significant wink) however, he would not need any help before the 20th of the month The officer could not divine for a few minutes what the old fellow was driving at, but he soon "dropped on it" and instead of getting angry, he humored the jest by a hearty laugh, assuring the farmer as he drove away that decapitated policemen would be glad to "get a job"—even to dig potatoes at a dollar per day

FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT.—A colored man some days ago was sued in a Justice's Court in this city for debt He was required, afterwards to make oath to the amount of property he had in possession of a watch in soak," at one of the hotels He was allowed to depart to procure the watch, and with it satisfy the execution in the hands of the constable. The colored man went his way, but took precious good care not to return again Yesterday morning, the constable set out to find the missing debtor He found him after some labor and search near the corner of Stark and Front streets. The officer gently insinuated that he would be extremely grateful to have the pleasure of the colored gentleman's company up to the Court room. The darkey very strongly declined the pleasure. Not only that, but he swore he would not go. A regular row took place The constable called for assistance and the unwilling prisoner at last was taken by main force before the Justice, who sentenced him to two days' imprisonment for contempt of Court He will, on release probably be arrested on the charge of resisting an officer in the discharge of his duties

SPURIOUS COIN.—A well known gentleman of this city succeeded yesterday in passing a spurious half dollar on a bar keeper "before his eyes" It was accomplished in this wise The gentleman, accompanied by two other gentlemen, stepped up to the bar to indulge in Sozaline and tansy The villainous compound was poured out, and, as a matter of course, absorbed Smacking his lips with satisfaction, the gentleman thrust his hand in his pocket and drew out a handful of money Among the coin he observed a counterfeit half dollar, and remarked to the others that he would like to know who succeeded in passing the piece on him The bar keeper, on seeing the spurious coin, jestingly offered to take it and give in return twenty five cents The gentleman took him at his word, and tossing the piece, along with a "slick bit," on the counter, he remarked that he stood square now The bar keeper did not seemingly, relish the practical joke, but seeing he was in for it, he acknowledged the corn and stood the drinks like a 'little man.' Moral There is no turpitude involved in passing counterfeit coin in a joke.

A HANDSOME PRESENT.—Carl Bosco, the well known magician and photographer of this city, who will take his departure for a temporary visit to the East to-day, was made the recipient of a handsome present last evening by his employers, Messrs. Bechtel & Stolte The testimonial consisted of a beautiful ebony cane surmounted with a gold head, on which were inscribed these words "Bechtel & Stolte to Carl Bosco, Oct 15, 1872" The presentation took place at the Cosmopolitan saloon last evening at half past seven o'clock. The address was made by Mr A. J Marshall Mr Bosco was greatly surprised and was so much taken back by the unexpected present, that language failed him, his utterance was choked and his eyes filled with tears He took the cane and could only find words to thank his friends for their kindness and consideration. The present is a most fitting and appropriate testimonial of their respect and esteem. The cane cost in the vicinity of $50

COPPER LODE.—A few days ago some specimens of copper ore were forwarded from Jacksonville by Messrs Fay & Ray, to Mr J H Fisk, of this city A test of the specimens disclosed the presence of a rich percentage of the ore—about 90 per cent The ore is said to be found in great abundance, and a lode has recently been located by these gentlemen A gentleman of this city has contracted to take as much of the ore as may be furnished, at the rate of $3 50 per ton There are great quantities of this metal employed in various ways here, and if it can be found in sufficient quantities in the State, the importation of copper is no longer necessary and just that much money can be kept in the country.

NEW CITY DIRECTORY.—On Friday next we shall announce in our columns the full programme for Samuel's City Directory for Portland and East Portland For the present we can assure our merchants and the public in general that it will be superior to any similar publication ever issued here, and the rates of advertising and subscription are twenty-five per cent lower than heretofore paid for inferior publications

SURPRISE PARTY.—A large number of the friends of the Rev. H Caldwell, pastor of the M E. Church in East Portland, gave that gentleman and his estimable lady a call a few evenings ago which proved an agreeable surprise The reverend gentleman and his wife had gone out on a missionarial call, and on returning found his house lighted up and a throng of his friends in full possession

THE FIRST BOAT.—The citizens of Oswego have determined to celebrate in a proper manner the opening of the canal between the lake and Tualatin river A very neat, handsome flag has been made and presented to the steamer Onward, which will be carried by that steamer on her first trip through the canal

READY TO OCCUPY.—The new addition to the Bishop Scott Grammar School, is rapidly approximating the finishing touches The lower story will be ready for occupancy about the 1st of November, and the whole building, exterior and interior, is expected to be completed by the 20th of the month

PUPILS.—A good degree of prosperity seems to attend the Bishop Scott Grammar School since the commencement of the present school year There are now in regular attendance 70 pupils, 25 of whom are boarders With the existing accommodations not another scholar could be received

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.—Street improvements in East Portland are moving ahead with a rapidity, which should be a source of pride to the citizens of that place. One of the principal thoroughfares of the town, J street, has been planked from First to Fourteenth streets

QUESTION SERVICE.—The question service at the Unitarian church was well attended last Sunday evening, and elicited some extremely interesting topics for short remarks from the pulpit It will be the order of the evening service again, next Sunday

CLEANING OUT.—For several weeks past the E N Cooke has been lying at Oregon City Her machinery, hull, cabin, etc, has been thoroughly overhauled and cleaned out. She will go down to Astoria in a few days to convey a hunting party to that place

CEMENT.—The steamer Senator took away yesterday afternoon several hundred barrels of cement, to be used in the construction of the Locks at Oregon City

For all kinds of upholstery work window shades, curtains, baskets, brackets etc call at Paul Ribbler's Work promptly attended to

LIVERY STABLE.—Mr Thomas Fitch, of East Portland, is building a large two story livery stable near I street in that place

The musical and literary entertainment given at the Masonic Hall last night, drew a fine audience, and we presume was a financial success. At any rate, for affording pleasure to those present, we think no occasion of the kind has exceeded it It would not seem fair to particularize where all did so well, and we have no space to enumerate the many attractions presented in the first part by singers and players of our city, but the really lively part of the programme was the hour's entertainment given by the justly celebrated Vivian He seemed perfectly at home, and acquitted himself in a manner that convulsed the audience with side splitting laughter, and plaited vociferous applause He takes the palm for amusing an audience

P B Johnson, Esq., has a letter written to him by the manager of the land department of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, instructing him to receive no more applications for land As a reason for this, the letter sets forth the fact that in Minnesota they have found that when the land actually comes into market the applicant seldom purchases it The letter further states, however that the company will always respect the rights of actual settlers on their lands

From the Olympia Transcript "Messrs Amos and Jones Tullis, of Chaquato, have cut in Lewis county this season with their header, six hundred and twenty nine acres of wheat and oats These were threshed at the same time, yielding 3,700 bushels Since then they have threshed 3,000 bushels of wheat and oats that were cut by reapers. This grain was all confined to a district of twelve miles along the Chehalis river, and is not probably one third of the grain of that county The average yield of the whole amount cut with the header was nearly twenty two bushels to the acre while two farms yielded thirty five and a half per acre Of the balance threshed no account was kept Messrs. Tullis have the only reaper west of the Cascades in Washington Territory Their average cut per day was sixteen acres, and their largest cut twenty five acres It is estimated that there were 4 000 acres of wheat and oats raised in the county this season, yielding not far from 90,000 bushels

Our Bodily Infirmities.

Physical infirmities are the lot of all Millions are always sick No man woman or child is unfamiliar in perfect health Much however, of the sickness and suffering which render life a burden to so many of our fellow beings is due to carelessness or neglect A mighty antidote to the leading causes of disease has been provided It is as harmless as it is efficient No poisonous drug enters into its composition It is an undefiled stimulant, tonic and aperient of which every ingredient is vegetable This unexceptionable preventive and restorative medicine is not a new thing under the sun. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will soon have been before the world a quater of a century and it is not too much to aver that thousands, aye tens of thousands, are now using it who would have been in their graves years ago, had they not been strengthened and sustained by this wholesome stimulant. The rapidity with which minor ailments often become, when neglected obstinate diseases, is well known This tonic is famous for the immediate check which it gives to these breeders of deadly disorders The sensation of languor, the sick headache the nervousness, the indisposition to exertion, the nausea, the confusion of brain, the physical debility, which are intended to premonish us of the approach of serious danger are invariably removed by a few doses of the Bitters The fame of the preparation as a genuine specific for dyspepsia bilious complaints, malarious fevers rheumatism and chronic debility, is as wide as the world and in these days of its famous charlatanism when fierce cathartics, that rob the invalid of his last remnants of his strength, are advertised as invigorants ( ), it is indeed a blessing to mankind that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are everywhere procurable, and everywhere popular

PLANTATION BITTERS!

S. T.—1860—X.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

A Brush with Indians.

SURPRISED BY THE ENEMY—A DASH FOR THE TIMBER—THE VALUE OF A REPEATING RIFLE

The following letter, from a gentleman in the survey party of the Northern Pacific Railroad and Yellowstone expedition, gives a lively picture of life on the plains. The Expedition was compelled to turn back, owing to the superior forces of hostile Indians.

VALLEY OF THE MUSCLESHELL, }
Sunday, Sept. 1, 1872. }

Having been cut off from all communication with the world outside of camp, I have been unable to write to you. But thanks to hostile Sioux, Arrapahoes, Cheyennes, &c., we are slowly returning to civilization. You have doubtless heard of our battles, so I will confine myself to my own private affairs. Since reaching Prior's Fork, where 2,600 of them jump our camp, (300 strong,) they have showed us every attention, sometimes surrounding us two or three times a night. We seldom see them in the day time. Once, however, I did get a "glimpse" of them. Thusly: Mr. Ingram and I started out for a hunt; had not gone far when we came upon a trail showing a single pony track. We thought it would be fun to find him and "lift his top-knot," simply as an evidence of affection. Following on several miles, we saw a herd of buffaloes, and concluded to let "Mr. Lo" go until a more convenient season. Away we went for buffalo. The herd divided, I taking after one part and my friend the other. You know it does not take long to follow buffalo several miles.

But wait a moment; here is other game. Skimming along the base of a hill, I saw eight Indians coming full tilt. No time to lose. About four or five miles away was a belt of timber. If I could reach that I should be fixed. I did not feel like giving battle against such odds. On every hand I saw a vast alkali plain. I must make that timber. All this took but an instant. My horse was foaming from the recent chase, but it was run or die, and I ran. They had the advantage of fresh ponies, and were partially between me and the timber already. Of course they saw my plan, and kept well to the left to cut me off. My horse flew like a bird, but the rascals had the inside track, and their war whoops came nearer and nearer, until a volley told me that I was actually within range. I threw my old rifle back and sent them my compliments, which must have passed near, as they slackened for a moment. Another volley and a whoop was the answer, and they came rattling on as fast as ever. My spurs fairly plowed furrows in the poor animal's sides as we flew along. My coat dropped from the saddle, but I did not want it. I was quite warm enough without a coat. They were cutting me off from the timber, sure. I must change my course. Holding further to the right, I might reach a point about a mile further away. This would lessen their advantage in point of distance. But my horse was giving out. I dashed the long Mexican spurs in the poor fellow's sides, and he only answered with a groan.

Do you know how far a mile is under these circumstances? I was not scared, but I fully appreciated the situation. Again I fired, but they did not heed it. My comrade almost failed me as I saw them cutting me off from this last point. Neither spur or the iron ramrod of my rifle could quicken the pace of the poor foaming and panting brute. My last hope was failing me now. I think I felt my scalp getting a little lose about that time. Just as I had formed the desperate resolution of dismounting and fighting it out, I passed the head of a deep gully, such as you have seen in alkali districts. For them it would be impassable. They must make a detour to the right. This put me beyond range, and brought them directly in my rear. Five minutes more my old "Cayus," (anglice, pony,) and we shall be out of harm's way. They are two cowardly to chase me far into the timber—besides I can give them a taste of my quality from behind one of those trees while they are in open field. These were very pleasing thoughts, but the reality was—they were gaining on me rapidly. That war whoop was much nearer than I would wish, and the whistling bullets informed me that I was in range once more.

A moment more and I gained the timber. Throwing myself from my horse, I took deliberate aim and fired. I could not repress a good, square, defiant Sioux war whoop as I saw one pony wounded. Again and again I gave it to them, while they were getting out of range. I had not been at all excited before, but the tables were so completely turned that I could no more help sending a war whoop after each shot than I could help firing, to see these eight cowardly villains getting out of the way of my rifle! It was just beautiful! Seeing them draw off upon a ridge out of range as if holding a council. I concluded I had satisfaction, so I "folded my tent like an Arab, and as silently" slid off into the timber, leading the poor old brute who had saved my scalp back to camp. The old fellow "fares sumptuously every day" now, as I told one of my servants I would relieve him from all other duty, so that he could take good care of the horse.

Wheat in Liverpool, 10s. 9d., and 11s. 4d.

The bark Loch Dee is both receiving and discharging cargo.

The Almatita and Melancthon are both discharging cargo at Flanders' wharf.

The bark Jane A. Falkinburg is reported in the river, and will probably be up to-day.

The steamer Oriflamme is due at this port this evening from San Francisco.

The bark Webfoot is overdue at this port from San Francisco. She brings a full cargo of assorted freights.

The bark Almatita will load with Lumber at Cement-ville. The Melancthon will load at St. Helens with the same material.

The British bark Norwood, at Victoria, has been chartered by Messrs. Corbitt & Macleay, of this city, to carry a cargo of Wheat from this port to the United Kingdom. She brings a large lot of Liverpool Salt to the above named firm, the arrival of which is quite opportune, as stock in market is light and held at an advanced price.

There is nothing new in monetary circles to-day to further the week, the indications not yet favoring any abatement of the pressure so often mentioned before.

Trade seems to have revived somewhat, and dealers generally claim that the business of the week will exceed that of either of the three weeks previous. Teams from the country line our streets, a fact which always speaks well for retail business, while our jobbers and wholesale houses are doing at least an average amount, for this period in the season.

In regard to the quotations on Wheat in Liverpool, the Pacific Rural Press of the 20 inst. makes an expose which shows conclusively that the rates which are telegraphed to this coast are uniformly incorrect, the telegraphic quotations being less every day since July 4, 1872, except two, than the quotations published by the New York Zane Express on the same days. Sometimes the telegraph makes no more than one cent difference on 100 lbs, but it has generally given the price at 7 to 22 cents less than the ruling rates, thus favoring speculators to the detriment of producers. The Express no doubt is correct, as it is a standard commercial journal in England. These telegraphic misquotations are continued right through the fourteen months, with one single exception. On the 28th of November, 1871, the true average price of Wheat in Liverpool was telegraphed to affirm the telegraphic quotations are in case of all other days. The average of the Liverpool and other English and European markets, as obtained for all grades of Wheat, quantities sold, and of finding out and publishing facts of interest to shipment, tonnage, etc., etc. The cost of such a branch would be a mere bagatelle; its benefits would be incalculable.

An item from the books of the Internal Revenue Department at Washington is as follows

The entire amount of "cash balances" outstanding on the books of the Internal Revenue Bureau, from its establishment in 1862 to July 1, 1872, is $12,216,301 19, of which $2,413,716 10 are classed as deficiencies, the remaining $797,435 00 being considered as subject to abatement or reduction by allowance for expenses, etc., and in process of settlement.

The amount of internal revenue paid into the Treasury to the close of June last was $1,740,184.

The entire amount of cash deficiation is, therefore, equivalent to one per cent. of the entire revenue collected.
